Police quell Cheyney protest after campus is vandalized

S. F. State students hurl rocks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rock throwing strikers broke windows in two San Francisco State College buildings Monday but quickly marched off the campus when police reinforcements arrived.

The college has been torn by violence, vandalism and fights with police since the Black Students Union called a strike Nov. 6.

At the end of a rainy-day lunchtime rally in the main quadrangle, attended by about 300 strike supporters and 1,000 onlookers, a BSU speaker, Tom Williams, suddenly shouted, "Classes are going on in the BSS. Let's move over there and close it down."

The activists raced across the quadrangle and threw stones and bricks at windows in the Business and Social Sciences Building and what was left of Building and what was left of the glass doors, shattered in battles last week.

They then surged over to the Administration Building, and broke several windows there.

As 200 police held in reserve off the campus, rushed in, the strikers marched across busy 19th Avenue to the Protestant Ecumenical House, a staging point for demonstrators.

Just as the rally exploded into violence, Nesbitt, Crutchfield, another BSU leader, told the crowd, "We are involved in a war and we are going to close this place down."

The Business and Social Sciences Building is a prime target because most students there have attended classes regularly since the campus was reopened Dec. 2 by Dr. S.I. Hayakawa, acting president. His predecessor had closed it Nov. 13 because of violence.

Most of the 16,000 students have attended classes under police protection.

Strikers demand an autonomous Black Studies Department under student control, an Ethnic Studies Department, promotion of some teachers and firing of others, admission of all non-white applicants, and reinstatement of Black Panther George Murray as a part-time instructor.

Hayakawa offered several concessions last week but strikers turned them down.

gathered into groups and were throwing rocks at the police, when the mounted officers moved in and quickly dispersed the crowd.

Ky proves good antagonist

PARIS (AP) — American envoys began aligning negotiating strategy with South Vietnam Monday in preparation for calling on Hanoi to help launch the stalled four-way Vietnam peace talks.

But new stresses were reported in three related sectors:

Vice president Nguyen Cao Ky offended his North Vietnamese antagonists Sunday when he spoke approving of a call here by Vietnamese demonstrators to "liberate Hanoi." Evidently, Ky also irked some Americans and even several of his own Saigon colleagues who had been urging him to display restraint.

Officials said South Vietnam was refusing to yield to the efforts of the Communists to portray the talks as a four-sided affair. Thus the Saigon delegation was said to have decided against sitting at a square table. Hanoi wants such a table to demonstrate the "independence" of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, which it invited to sit in. The issue could indefinitely delay the start of the conference already five weeks behind schedule.

"But let us not confuse the disclosure of symptoms as a substitute for the wisdom of trained professionals," Agnew said in a speech prepared for delivery at a luncheon held as part of the Congress of Cities.

His remarks indicated that the Nixon administration would back away from the "maximum feasible participation" aspect of the Johnson administration's War on Poverty.

"All too often," Agnew said, "participation of the poor has been construed to mean playing both patient and doctor; when all too often the unhappy result has ranged from protracted delay at best to extravagant boondoggling at worst."

Agnew, who described himself as Nixon's personal representative between the new administration and state and local government, was invited to the congress after Nixon declined because of prior commitments.

Urban officials expressed concern over the direction the administration would take in grappling with city problems.

Agnew admitted at one point in his talk that he was being general in his discussions of policy approaches but he said, "The specifics are in existence. They need but to be assembled, developed and refined in hundreds of work sessions at all levels."

"In other cases both state and city governments have been short-circuited by an increasing distribution of federal aid grants to nongovernmental entities."

Adam moves closer to seat

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating allegations that Negro ex-congressman Adam Clayton Powell misused public funds expired Monday without returning an indictment.

The Justice Department said it had concluded "that available evidence did not warrant prosecution" and it had not recommended an indictment. But it said it was still checking to see if Powell might be liable under civil law.

The expiration of the grand jury without an indictment increased the possibility that the flamboyant, Baptist minister will be seated when the 91st Congress convenes in January.

He could not be reached for comment but indicated at a news conference in New York last month he did not expect the grand-jury to return an indictment.

The grand jury had been investigating Powell's affairs for more than a year, and he and his congressional employees had appeared before it.

He was re-elected by his Harlem constituents last month and has said he is willing to take his seat as a freshman. He had 22 years' seniority when he was expelled by a vote of the membership in the 90th Congress.

But at the same time Powell is pursuing a lawsuit he filed against the House of Representatives, alleging that it acted unconstitutionally when it barred him. The U.S. Supreme Court is hearing arguments on the case.

The House voted in March 1967 to exclude Powell on charges of misappropriating federal funds and making false reports of expenditures.

He was re-elected to his seat in April of that year, but did not ask to be seated. His change of heart came this year, when he proclaimed that he would return as a freshman because "the country needs me."

Cabinet naming all set

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon will announce his cabinet selections Wednesday night, naming all 12 members in an appearance nationally televised from Washington.

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press assistant, announced the unprecedented formal Monday. The Nixon announcement will be timed, for television impact, at 10 p.m. from Washington's Sheraton Hotel.

It represents a new look in Cabinet announcements.

Past presidents-elect have chosen to disclose their choices one or two names at a time.

Ziegler said the final decisions on the men who will make up the cabinet have now been made, but he refused to comment in any way on the names involved.

"I can neither confirm nor deny any personality with relation to the cabinet," Ziegler said. He said Wednesday's announcement may also include some major Nixon appointments outside the cabinet.

Ziegler disclosed that Nixon dispatched a personal message Sunday to President Charles de Gaulle of France. It was sent through U.S. Ambassador Sargent Shriver, who met with the president-elect for nearly two hours.

Ziegler said Nixon will fly to Washington Wednesday for his evening announcement of the cabinet. He said newsmen will make up the live audience, but Nixon clearly counted on a vast national television audience.

The cabinet members are to be present and Nixon plans to introduce them in a session Ziegler said would take at least 30 minutes.

U. S. Marines link up cutting off battalions

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines slammed shut a massive encirclement of enemy battalions south of Da Nang Monday in a close-quarter fight that left 93 North Vietnamese and 16 American dead on the battlefield.

The final chapter of Operation Meade River was written before noon when Leatherneck riflemen charged through a patch of marshland to link up with other Marines across a shallow, muddy stream.

A 50-square-mile cordon drawn 20 days ago by 7,000 allied troops had shrunk in the end to a bunkered rectangle 200 yards wide and 100 yards deep.

The operation was launched after enemy troops tried last month to seize the district town of Dien Ban, 15 miles south of Da Nang.

Marine spokesman said the final cost was 862 enemy slain, 95 Marines killed and 504 wounded, and light casualties among South Korean marines and South Vietnamese infantrymen who helped cinch the ring.

The allies also seized 89 prisoners of war and 73 members of the Viet Cong political structure which had held firm control over much of the Dien Ban district, a guerrilla stronghold known by the Marines as "Dodge City."

Clay L. Shaw

Supreme Court oks conspiracy trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court cleared the way Monday for New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison to try Clay L. Shaw for conspiracy in the murder of President John F. Kennedy.

Shaw, a 55-year-old retired businessman, had appealed to the court for "sanctuary," asking that the prosecution be blocked. He accused Garrison of persecution and said the district attorney does not really expect to win a conviction that would stand up.

Moreover, Shaw sought to knock out Louisiana's conspiracy laws and to make binding on all courts in the land the Warren Commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone, assassinated Kennedy.

The justices apparently by an 8-0 vote, affirmed dismissal of Shaw's suit by a panel of three federal judges in Texas last May. The ruling does not pass judgment on the merits of the case against Shaw. It simply finds federal intervention in the state-court prosecution premature.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, who headed the commission that fixed the blame for Kennedy's killing on Oswald and discounted conspiracy theories, removed himself from consideration of Shaw's appeal.

In New Orleans, the assistant district attorney, James L. Alcock, said a trial date would be set "as soon as possible," perhaps for next month. Alcock said he was not surprised at the decision.

The court surprised observers in another sense. It returned from a two-week recess its second layoff since October, with only two decisions in cases it has heard this term. And in both cases the justices did not pass judgment on the issues that had been raised.

The court, with little explanation, said it should not have heard the appeals in the first place.

One sought to give suspects in all the states the same right to speedy arraignment the controversial 1957 Mallory ruling had given federal criminal suspects.

The second tried to challenge prosecution for draft evasion when the evidence is slim that the draftee ever received an order to report for induction.

Meanwhile, the justices set the stage for a major civil rights ruling—a bid by the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund to open private beach and swimming clubs to Negroes.

The appeal, to be heard next year, claims an 1866 civil rights law gave Negroes the right to use places of public amusement, including clubs that charge a nominal fee so they can limit "membership" to whites.

Last June the court decided that all-but-forgotten federal law banned racial discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing, private as well as public.

Military spokesmen reported enemy gunners shelled two district towns and eight allied bases Sunday night and early Monday. The targets included the Nha Trang air base, 200 miles northeast of Saigon, and the U.S. Army headquarters complex at Long Binh, 15 miles north of the capital.

American infantrymen, sweeping potential attack routes north and south of Saigon, turned up more stores of enemy war supplies. They included nearly 2,000 rounds of mortar, recoilless rifle and rocket grenade ammunition and 80,000 cartridges for small arms.

Grocery stores eye LBJ honored beer sales fight

HARRISBURG (AP) — The long-awaited report of the Governor's Liquor Code Advisory Committee will contain no surprises but will face stiff opposition on some recommendations, it was learned Monday.

The committee telephoned its punches in its preliminary report six months ago and, its legal counsel said Monday, the final recommendations "will be an elucidation of the preliminary report."

But high on the list of recommendations in the report commissioned in May 1967 by Gov. Shafer is controversial support of sale of beer in grocery stores.

In anticipation, one major grocers association has launched a drive to secure legislative enactment of this proposal early next year.

Petitions calling for supermarket beer sales are cropping up in supermarkets across the state.

Bitter opposition is expected, however, from members of the Malt Beverage Distributors Association, which represents some 2,000 beer outlets around the state.

The advisory committee, in its preliminary report, did specify markets would have to buy their beer from distributors.

There are two classes of distributors in the state, however, and the smaller distributors who sell retail rather than wholesale are expected to suffer from supermarket competition, an industry source said.

The report, which also includes proposed legislation for Sunday sales of alcoholic beverages throughout the state and favors retention of the state monopoly on liquor and wine sales, is slated for release in mid-January, said Atty. Gen. William C. Sennett, the committee chairman.

Sennett said the voluminous report, the result of 11 public hearings and 16 months of work, is now "in the hands of the printer."

Dep. Atty. Gen. Joseph Wurk, the legal counsel for the committee of laymen and legislators, said the report contained essentially the same 35 recommendations of the preliminary report plus supporting data.

While favoring the monopoly liquor sales system, the report also will acknowledge insistant pleas by one committee member, Sen. Edwin G. Holl, R-Montgomery, for a marketing test to show if it is superior to private ownership of liquor.

Concert to be held in Bangor

BANGOR — Bangor Area Senior and Junior High choruses will present their annual Christmas choral concert at the senior high auditorium on Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

"A Musical Christmas Card" is the theme of the event. The program will consist of a variety of secular and non-secular songs.

Among the principal selections by the junior high will be: "Born Today is the Child Divine," "I Saw Three Ships Come Sailing," "Teyland," "Let It Snow," and "White Christmas." Selections by the senior high will include, "Wolcum Yole" from "Ceremony of Carols" by Benjamin Britten, "Home for the Holidays," "I'll Be Home For Christmas," "The Holly and the Ivy," and "December, a Joyous Month For All."

Culminating point The singing of Handel's Hallelujah chorus from his oratorio "Messiah" will be the culminating point of the program.

The junior and senior high choruses are under the direction of Miss Sandra Troutman and William Stine, respectively.

The accompanists for the senior high groups are: Glen Utsch, Kirk Brown, Betsy Jones, and Janice Lamberl; and for the junior high are: Karen Lilly, Kathy Treweeks, Linda Miller, Marie Bush, Pat Hall, Douglass LaBar, Todd Deen and Marsha Williams.

The Senior High Chorus will present its portion of the program for the student body, Friday, Dec. 20, in the auditorium.

Ministry receives added funds

NEWFOUNDLAND — The Pocono Mountains Methodist Preaching Mission voted recently to dissolve its organization and to forward its remaining funds to the Vacationland Ministries at Newfoundland.

The Preaching Mission sponsored two successful summer Sunday evening forums in Barrett Township, but cancelled its third season because of poor public response and the high cost of the series.

J. Holland Jeck, treasurer of the Preaching Mission, sent a check in the amount of $504 to the Newfoundland preaching effort at the direction of the Board of Directors.

Rev. John N. Roberts, of Chester, presided over the final meeting which was held in Allentown.

Jim Culver, club leader for the new 4-H TV Science Club, instructs members on the use of the microscope and points out the many fascinating and unusual things occurring in the microscopic world. The TV Science Club is open to new and current 4-H members.

County students can join 4-H club television class

WILKES-BARRE — Boys and girls who are nine years old and older can become members of a new and interesting 4-H Club which will be presented on Channel 44, WVIA, Wilkes-Barre, starting January 9.

A project book, which will be issued to all those who enroll, will make it possible to work along with the topics presented on the television show and complete the project.

Monroe County boys and girls in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades can obtain their 4-H TV Science Club Booklet by sending their name, age, address and county on a postcard to 4-H TV Science Club, Monroe County Cooperative Extension Service, Post Office Building, Stroudsburg.

Television members will learn how to electrolyte objects, build gliders, set up aquaria and make a simple musical instrument.

Interesting and unusual uses of scientific phenomena how and in the future will be highlighted in the "Theater Feature" on each program.

Guest scientists introduce the scientific method, show new products from petroleum, explain gravity and earth-satellites and apply the principles of simple machines to modern machinery.

This program is presented as part of the Pennsylvania State University Cooperative Extension Service and its county offices.

— Physical damage and danger to life resulting from floods.

— Centers of population, occupations, industry, land use and developments, agriculture, natural and economic resources, highways, bridges and railroads.

— Nature of problems and improvements desired.

— Existing navigation; power development, irrigation, water supply, recreation, fish and wild life and other water resources.

— Benefits expected to result from the proposed improvements. These should be described and, if possible, estimates of anticipated monetary value of the benefits given.

— Extent of local cooperation that would be provided. Local interests' willingness to cooperate by furnishing lands, rights-of-way and to contribute any financial aid to the cost of the improvements.

— Oral testimony will be heard, but the Corps has asked that facts and figures be in writing. All the information will be forwarded to the secretary of the Army for a decision.

Specifically, the Corps is seeking information on these points:

— Values of property and productivity of areas subject to flooding under present conditions.

— Physical damage and danger to life resulting from floods.

— Centers of population, occupations, industry, land use and developments, agriculture, natural and economic resources, highways, bridges and railroads.

— Nature of problems and improvements desired.

— Existing navigation; power development, irrigation, water supply, recreation, fish and wild life and other water resources.

— Benefits expected to result from the proposed improvements. These should be described and, if possible, estimates of anticipated monetary value of the benefits given.

— Extent of local cooperation that would be provided. Local interests' willingness to cooperate by furnishing lands, rights-of-way and to contribute any financial aid to the cost of the improvements.

Mill fire in Bangor contained

BANGOR — Firemen from five fire companies in the Slate Bell Monday battled a blaze in Blue Ridge-Winkler Textile Co. in Bangor, and won.

At 7:30 a.m., fire broke out in the finishing department of the mill and quickly spread to a false ceiling in the department.

Ben Albert, Bangor fire chief, said much credit should be given to the employees of the plant who acted quickly when the fire broke out.

Employees closed the fire doors and used extinguishers to battle the flames until firemen arrived.

In addition to the three companies from Bangor, a company from Pen Argyl and another from East Bangor were on the scene.

Each person is requested to bring a $1 gift for an exchange. Admission is fifty cents, and is open to adults only.

Light, machine bids in Pike to be opened after Jan. 1 close at noon Tuesday, Dec. 24, and Tuesday, Dec. 31.

It was also announced that while bids for the construction of a flood protection dam in the Greene-Dreher watershed will be opened Monday, Dec. 16, as scheduled, a contract will not be awarded until the following day when the commissioners will hold their next regular meeting.

Executive action questionable

If reports making the rounds are as creditable as we think they are, it didn't take the Monroe County Planning Commission long to digest the information derived from a recent public meeting, at which various aspects of hiring a planning director were presented.

In fact, it took an unbelievable short time in executive session last Tuesday night, after members of the commission discussed a number of items and then wrestled with the budget for a lengthy period before adjourning the regular meeting.

The time of adjournment and the time of arrival home of the member of the commission driving the greatest distance left very little time, comparatively speaking, for a thorough discussion, consumption and digestion of all material presented at the recent public meeting.

Reports made by members of the commission reveal that in all probability Douglas Williams will be named planning "administrator" rather than planning director, even though he doesn't qualify for the office according to state and federal standards.

We question the moral aspect of naming an individual to fill this planning office in executive session after a group of six people sat through the entire regular meeting, waiting for the subject to be brought to the floor.

The group was told the subject would be discussed and a file of information was shown to those in attendance. It was indicated that it would take time to digest all the information provided.

It was our opinion that executive session appointments were illegal. However, it has been explained that such appointments are probably legal, providing they are inscribed on the regular meeting minutes and made public immediately.

But, the public meeting and open record laws of Pennsylvania in Section Five states:

"An act requiring that all meetings of legislative bodies of political subdivisions and of boards, commissions and authorities, created by or operating as agencies of political subdivisions at which ordinances, resolutions, rules, regulations and other actions are adopted to be open to the public; permitting the holding of executive sessions from which the public is excluded, but prohibiting the adoption of ordinances, resolutions, rules and regulations at such sessions."

We can't see how the planning commission can operate without federal and state funds and that is just what it will have to do if it follows its current plans for naming a planning "administrator."

Laws aren't enough

The state's new anti-obscene literature law may drive under the counter some of the more blatant published trash that has been displayed in recent years in some stores.

The result could be a reduction in sales volume and that would be worth accomplishing.

The law, which expanded existing statutes to embrace magazines, books, movies and other materials, may be difficult to enforce. Long court battles can be predicted.

The lawmakers and Gov. Raymond Shafer are to be commended for trying to strengthen society's protection against those who capitalize on an appeal to lewdness. The new law's special attention to nonadults — defined as those through 17 — may frighten off some peddlers of the printed junk for a time.

But laws alone cannot wipe out the trade in obscene matter. There must be a rising of public taste, especially in the examples held out to the young.

No responsible thinker wants to shut off access to literature that has stood the test of time or is new but penetrating.

The determining factor should be whether any offensive matter it includes has what the courts call "redeeming social value."

In this permissive society, any attempt to deal with obscenity becomes difficult in the face of changing standards. Future experience with the new state law no doubt will bear this out.

Party bridges

WASHINGTON — There is a key to legislative success for President-elect Nixon in dealing with a Democratic Congress: a bridge of moderate Republicans to moderate Democrats over which moderate legislation can pass. But it can't be taken for granted that the Republicans in Congress will make its building easy. Forces are already at work at two points to block this needed political bridge.

1-Sen.-elect Barry Goldwater is blowing back into Washington from Arizona in a take-charge, no-compromise mood, aiming for right-of-Nixon control of the Senate Republicans.

2—"There is a tough fight going on between a moderate and an ultraconservative for the number two job in the GOP Senate leadership.

But on the help-Nixon side, there are suggestions that Republican and Democratic moderates in Congress might be able to form a loose, floating coalition which, with some give and take on both sides, could help put through major administration measures.

Returning to seat

The word from Arizona is that Goldwater is returning to his seat in the United States Senate determined to see that his brand of Republicanism becomes dominant. It is evident that the Republican who failed to win the Presidency in 1964 feels that he reflects the views of more voters than the Republican who won the Presidency in 1968.

My information is that Goldwater has been eagerly telling friends that when he gets back to Congress in January the 27 million Americans who voted for him for president will at last be effectively represented.

There is no validity to this claim. The pure Goldwater vote in 1964 was about three million — no more. They represent his special constituency. The basis for this statement is that the others who voted for Goldwater constitute the basic partisan Republican vote and is nearly the same percentage of the total vote that went to Herbert Hoover in 1932 and Thomas Dewey in 1948. Beyond this basic party vote Goldwater added three million of his own special supporters just as Nixon added about three million voters to rock-bottom Republicanism this year.

It might be better for the Republican Party to let Nixon as president represent his 31 million voters — and others — than for Goldwater to try to represent 27 million of them.

The point is that unless the Republican leaders in Congress are willing to create both an image and an instrument to enable themselves to work flexibly and comfortably with the Democratically controlled Congress, it will be impossible for Nixon himself to go so.

Important choice

This is one of the reasons why the choice of the assistant GOP Senate leader to replace Sen. Thomas Kuchel, a Republican moderate, is so important. And here, again, Goldwater is making it clear to party colleagues that, if he can make his influence decisive, he wants to install alongside the conservative and sometimes flexible Senate Republican leader Everett Dirksen an even more conservative and less flexible assistant minority leader in the person of Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska so that the top of the leadership will be as Goldwaterish as he can make it.

The choice is between Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, an articulate leader with whom all shades of Democrats and Republicans can do business, and Hruska. The decision is whether to make the top party leadership in the Senate 50 per cent more conservative than it was all during the Dirksen-Kuchel years and at the very time when Nixon, if he is to be able to work effectively with Congress, needs a more balanced party leadership — balanced ideologically and balanced geographically.

Right now it looks as though Scott has more support than Hruska and it will probably remain that way unless Dirksen and Goldwater decide to join forces against him.

Nixon will need a bridge to Democratic moderates in Congress and he can't build it all by himself. He will need the help of like-minded Republicans in the Senate and House.

Lester Coleman, M.D.

Perforated eardrums

Can the eardrum be perforated by an injury? Can it be fixed and made normal again?

It is not unusual to find that the eardrum is torn, ruptured or perforated by a sharp, open-handed slap to the ear. The sudden pressure and its release can cause a tear with or without hemorrhage in the ear canal. Almost always there is immediate and pronounced loss of hearing.

The key to the repair of this condition is immediate treatment. Almost all of these perforations will heal in three or four weeks if early treatment is devoted to the prevention of infection and to the gentle handling of the tear.

Otolologists or ear specialists are able to close the defect in the eardrum by gently cauterizing the edges of the opening. Sometimes it is necessary to apply some inert material to give the cells a bridge to help heal the hole in the eardrum. Fine cigarette paper has been used successfully when applied carefully to the opening.

Special emphasis is made that such injuries must be seen and treated early. Only then can the perforation heal without infection and bring with it the return of normal, healthy hearing.

New surgical techniques devised in the past 10 or 15 years now make it possible to close large perforations of the drum with very fine skin grafts. This has successfully been used for perforations of the eardrum caused by infectious diseases that have produced chronic otitis media or middle ear infection. The advances of this type of surgery are ingenious and have returned serviceable hearing to many deafened people.

14 postmasters in 122 years

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the sixth of 10 articles on post office histories in the West End of Monroe County, compiled by Raymond Andrews, a retired school teacher, who lives in Kresgeville.)

SCIOTA — The Sciota post office has operated under two names in its 122-year history and has included an even dozen postmasters.

When founded on Jan. 5, 1846, the post office operated under the name of Fennerville. It wasn't changed to Sciota until 1860, on June 8.

John Marsh was the first postmaster, followed by Linford March on July 7, 1846.

Other postmasters and the date they took over office are Joseph Fenner, Dec. 8, 1862; Charles E. Kistler, July 20, 1867; Jerome Fetherman, April 15, 1880; John W. Yinger, April 21, 1884; Nathan M. Lesh, June 23, 1885; Jerome Woodling, June 29, 1889; Dayton Lesh, April 3, 1894; Lawrence M. Dennis, March 1, 1923; Mrs. Ida M. Dennis, August 15, 1951, and Carl Dennis, who has served since May 15, 1952.

The last three postmasters have been named Dennis.

Lesh served in office for 29 years and Lawrence Dennis 28 to lead in years of service.

New OEO politics

John A. Goldsmith

WASHINGTON — With the Nixon Administration still under construction, the battle has already begun over the future of the war on poverty.

At stake is the very survival of the anti-poverty agency, the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO). On this matter President Nixon will have an influential, and perhaps a decisive, say.

Already, Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes has given the President-elect a report urging that OEO be abolished. The report was prepared by a group of Rhodes' Ohio aides and was presented to Nixon personally by the governor last week.

In the House of Representatives, a source of some junk-OEO sentiment in the recent past, Rep. Carl A. Perkins, D-Ky., has ordered a bipartisan study of OEO-financed poverty programs in a dozen cities. The evaluation was suggested by Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn.

House Republicans began requesting such an inquiry last summer after the Senate Investigations Subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., complained of misuse of federal funds in a Chicago anti-poverty project involving a street gang, the Blackstone Rangers. The new study will include programs operating in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, San Diego, San Antonio, New Orleans, Nashville, Philadelphia, Houston, New Haven, Indianapolis and Pittsburgh.

Up and out

Whatever happens to OEO, Harding is almost certainly out of a job there. While he is a career government official, he was nominated by President Johnson to be OEO director last July. The Senate did not confirm Harding's nomination, but his job is one which can be filled now by a Nixon appointee.

Harding, 49, has been in government all his adult life. He joined the Bureau of the Budget in 1942, was in the Air Force for three years in World War II, and then worked up through the federal bureaucracy in the Veterans Administration, Atomic Energy Commission and Internal Revenue Service.

In the IRS, where he was a deputy commissioner before moving to OEO, he is credited with playing a major role in the installation of automatic data processing. He has received several awards for public administration.

Man in middle

The man in the middle in the emerging fight over OEO is career government official Bertrand M. Harding, who succeeded Sargent

Work ugly word

WASHINGTON — Statistics on the labor situation are so meaningless. The Labor Department constantly finds itself claiming the percentage of unemployed persons is down, while admitting the actual number of unemployed persons is up.

Of course, sometimes it's vice versa and, tell you the truth, I don't know exactly which it is at the moment. It doesn't really matter, because the only important statistic, which the Labor Department never gives us, is this one:

How many people are unemployed, because they can't find a job and how many are unemployed because the jobs can't find them? It is my theory that a million or so of our "unemployed" simply go into hiding whenever the word work is mentioned. A disgraceful situation which has been tolerated too long.

Why, when we allow grownups to get away without working, how can we expect young people to want to work? And while I'm asking that question, you're probably wondering what in the world has set me off like this. I'll tell you: I can't get anyone to rake my leaves, that's what.

It's as bad as last summer, when I couldn't get anyone to mow my lawn. As a matter

Letters to the editor

Condemns council

Editor, The Record:

The Pocono Record of December 5, 1968, carried an article on the Stroudsburg Borough Council meeting of Wednesday, December 4, 1968.

At that meeting the council voted unanimously to oppose the construction of the Youth Development Center in Upper Mount Bethel Township. The council felt that the YDC would be a detriment to the good name of the area.

I know of a Boy Scout Troop in this area whose leaders have been working for several months to find a replacement for their Scoutmaster. They have met with no success. Everyone is too busy.

The same people who oppose the building of the YDC and will not give time to other positive youth programs, are the ones who complain the most. Their favorite supper table topic is "What has happened to the kids today? Why, when I was their age . . ." Perhaps

Remove unsightly signs

Editor, The Record:

It was recently noted in the press that Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis suggested that all political posters, stickers, etc., placed all over the county during the campaign be removed.

The Monroe County Garden Club most heartily endorses and approves of this suggestion and hopes that the commissioners have the power to follow through to see that this is done.

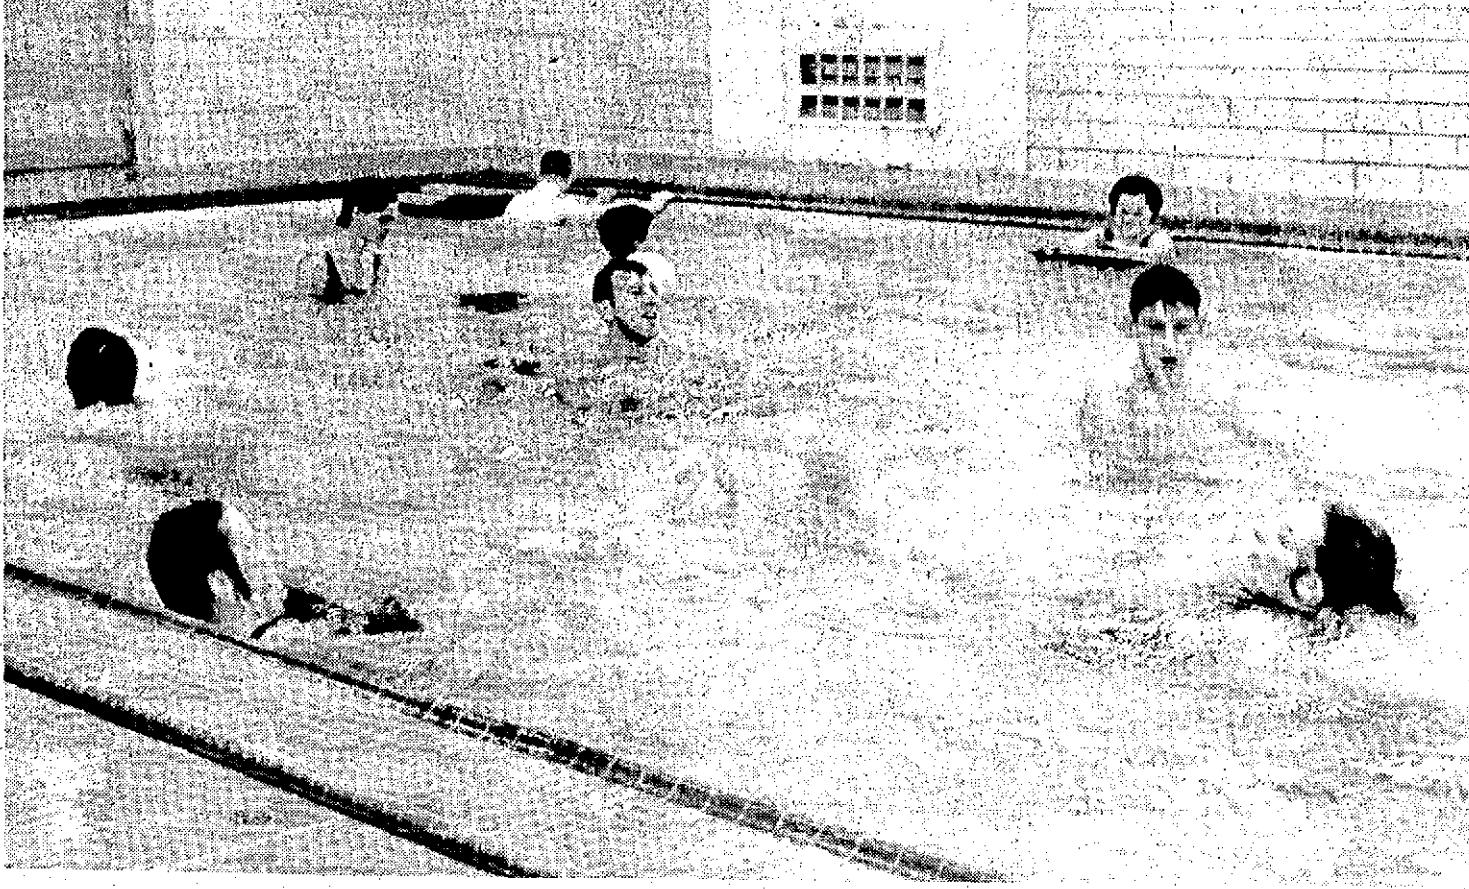

At the same time it is suggested that the people who put up signs for the Arts and Craft when they were young there were more adults around who cared about kids.

The courts tell us that we need special places for young offenders so they are not exposed to hardened criminals in our jails. Many people agree but no one wants to do anything about it. Their reasoning is, "I think it is a good idea but not in my backyard."

These people who won't help a kid who has made a mistake, or even a "good" kid so he won't make a mistake, have no right to complain about the youth of today or any day.

As a resident of Stroudsburg, I condemn the action of the council that supposedly represents my interests. They represent only the narrow-minded and selfish people of our community. It is these people who are a detriment to the good name of the area."</p

Pool frolic

Swimming is a natural form of recreation and development of physical form and for the mentally retarded children and young adults of Monroe County it is no different. Besides the pleasure, the pupils are instructed and supervised by volunteer students from the East Stroudsburg State College physical education department. The swim hour at the YMCA is supplemented by a gymnastics hour and a session in shop and crafts.

Mentally retarded work, play

Happy reward

After a classroom session, it's "time-out" for a treat as a pupil at Reeder's Daycare Training Center carefully and mannerly serves a sweet dish for young appetites.

Useful lesson

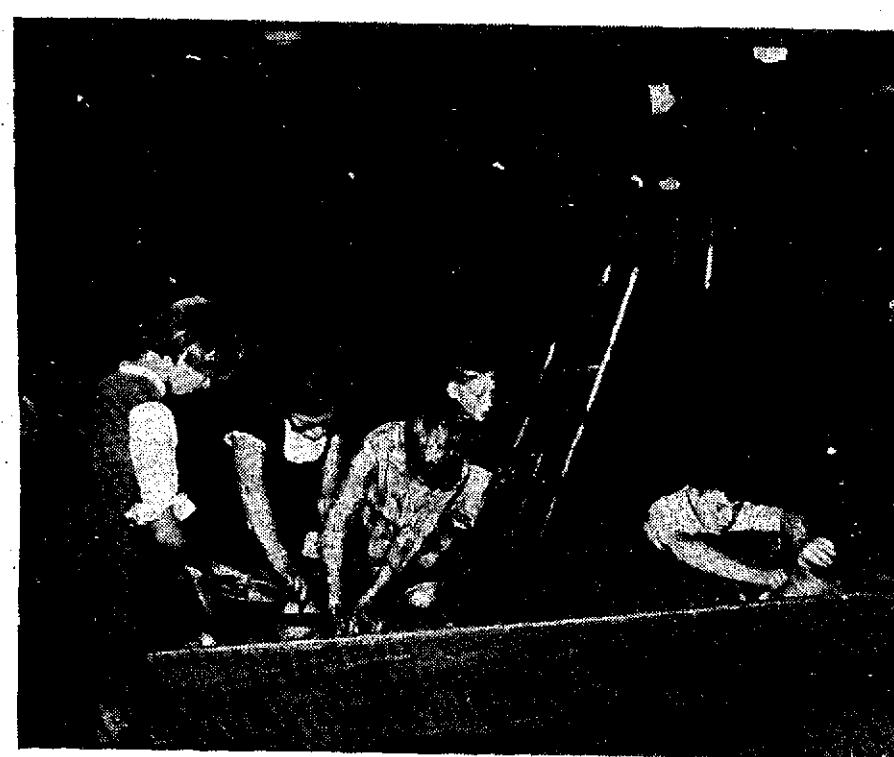

The special youth program held every Monday night at the Stroudsburg YMCA devotes some time to teaching mentally retarded children and young adults personal and household care and in this case, a pupil is given a demonstration in knitting.

Industry

Two participants in the Special Youth Program for Monroe County are learning and practicing basic use of shop tools and machinery to develop coordination and pride in completing handicrafts. This is just one of the sessions of the weekly Monday night program in the YMCA for retarded children sponsored by the Monroe County Association for Retarded Children.

Simple play

After regular class work, pupils of the Reeder's Day Care Training Center enjoy group recreation to stimulate their desire to participate and enjoy simple play and sports. During the winter months a play area is provided in the school basement and includes the sandbox, slide and open space for ball games.

Special project

Under the special education department of Monroe County Schools, the Reeder's Day Care Training Center gives training and education to three age groups of mentally retarded children from ages six to 21, in preparation for occupational work through the Burnley Workshop or other employment opportunities. Here, a pupil explains a slide projection on the Thanksgiving holiday before a combined class. Every Tuesday, a special program is scheduled for all pupils.

Declarer cannot tell at this point whether the hearts are divided 3-3 or 4-2, but he does know that if he ruffs in dummy with the three and East overruffs, he'll automatically go down one. So let's say he ruffs with the ace. East discarding a club.

South now leads a diamond to the ace and plays still another heart. Again he faces defeat if he ruffs low in dummy. East would overruff and cash a club. So declarer escapes this trap by discarding the jack of clubs from dummy permitting West to win the heart with the queen.

This unusual play accomplishes the job. What West returns does not matter — South winds up with twelve tricks. He ruffs a club in dummy, draws trumps, and easily makes the rest.

In effect, what declarer accomplishes by this loser-oner play is substitute a safe club ruff in dummy for a dangerous heart ruff. This transfer of a ruff from one suit to the other is certainly not an everyday occurrence, but it is clear that the present circumstances call for it.

For example, take this hand where it would be easy to go wrong. West leads a club against six spades and dummy takes the ace. Declarer realizes it would be unwise to draw trumps at once and put all his hopes solely on a favorable heart division, so he first clashes the K-A of hearts and continues with a low heart on which West

For holiday atmosphere

Hospitality table

By MISS DAWNE SENSINGER
Assistant Home Economist
STROUDSBURG. — The Christmas season has arrived not only in the stores but also in our homes. As we frantically scour the shops for gifts, we often pick up items for decorating at home. Sometimes we have planned their uses, more often they catch our eye and we must plan later how these items will be used.

Why not plan a hospitality table using these items and others to welcome friends? The very word hospitality has an easy charm. It implies a spontaneous welcome which is in no way dependent upon elaborate fixings or lengthy preparation. This is the kind of gracious atmosphere every homemaker will want to create during the holidays when friends drop in. And it is simple enough from the standpoints of both time and money.

For your "hospitality center," use the dining table or an occasional table in the living room if you have one large enough. Start early in the day to set it with holiday linens, cake plates, eggcups, bowl and cups, and your prettiest silver. Bring out the fruit cake. Everything is ready, and all that remains for you to do later is serve the eggnog at a moment's notice. This can be prepared ahead of time and brought to the table as needed. Everybody will enjoy such a casual, but warm, welcome, ready and waiting.

Christmas tablecloths are so dramatic these days, they need little decorative assistance from other props. Even the most elaborate designs are intended for the washer, so use them often. Choose red or green napkins for a white cloth, or pale pink napkins for a gold cloth if you like a more sophisticated approach. Add a tiered stand to hold small goodies, or a single silver or crystal centerpiece to add a pretty glow. Or your piece de resistance might be a silver bowl filled with fresh fruit, combining the reds and greens of apples, grapes, and cranberries. Silver table pieces will shine brightly throughout the holidays, without need for repeated polishing if you wash them often with hot soap or detergent suds and rinses; then buff with a lintless cloth.

Holiday design china — it may be plastic, of course — is inexpensive, and serves a decorative as well as utilitarian purpose. Be sure to choose a tablecloth and plates or punch bowl set with regards to their motifs and colors, in order to have the table one complete harmonious picture.

In addition to an easy way of entertaining, there is also an easy way of caring for those holiday linens. Cloths, from lace to linen, are now available with soil release or stain-resistant finishes. Machine washing removes those stubborn stains and machine drying eliminates the need for ironing.

No matter how you decorate and entertain during the Christmas season, keep it simple. You should be able to enjoy your guests while they are present and not be busy running back and forth preparing dishes.

Living Christmas wreath, a chickadee perches on a berry ring to sample the peanuts in a cup provided by the Dievlers at their home, East Stroudsburg, R.D. 3.

Wintering our fine feathered friends

STROUDSBURG — Tips on bird feeding have been prepared by Mrs. William Dievler who is bird chairman of both the Monroe County
Garden Club and of the district

2 of the Pennsylvania State Federation.

"Many hours of enjoyment will be yours if you feed the birds in winter," she promises.

There are two kinds of birds,
she explained, those who feed normally on insects and those which feed on seeds or grain.

The insectivorous birds
include the woodpeckers, nuthatches, chickadees, titmice,
kinglets, creepers and jays.
They will enjoy beef set, meat scraps, all kinds of nuts, peanut butter mixed with cornmeal.

The seed-eating category of birds found in the northern United States in winter are mostly of the sparrow family.
Those which come to the feeding stations ordinarily include juncos, tree, fox and song sparrows, purple finch, evening grosbeak and cardinals.
Chick feed, which is cracked grain, is the cheapest and the most convenient to obtain, she said.

A few drops of glycerin added to the water in a natural stone bird bath will retard freezing and provide the birds with a necessity, she suggests.

However, once started, a bird feeding station must be maintained since the birds come to depend on it especially in cold or snowy weather.

A self-supplying bird feeding station may be planted, she suggests, since berry bearing plants and trees such as mulberry, dogwood, wild cherry, viburnums and barberries will carry wintering birds over until spring.

The best time to attract birds is in the fall when their fixed feeding habits are formed, she said, adding that it's still not too late to start a satisfying winter hobby for Christmas.

Mrs. Altemus president of Blue Ridge Fire Aux.

SAYLORSBURG — Mrs.
Bessie Altemus was elected

Children motivate display

EAST STROUDSBURG — Visitors to 274 Brodhead Ave., East Stroudsburg, will immediately be moved into the Christmas spirit when they see a completely handcrafted holiday display created by Howard B. Wright.

The display includes an organ, a mannequin playing the organ, a nativity and several dolls with hymnals. Music is provided through four speakers behind the organ from a stereo player inside the house.

The project was started about June.

Wright said it took him about 10 hours to set it up and the reason for it all "is to watch the children's faces light up. They seem to really enjoy it. What I am trying to do is put Christ back into Christmas for all to see and hear it. It's my way of saying Merry Christmas. Peace on Earth."

Alice Snyder services held

BANGOR — Funeral services for Mrs. Alice Snyder Scobold, 74, of Easton, who died last Wednesday in Eastwood Convalescent Home, Easton, were held Saturday in the Miller Funeral Home, Bangor, with the Rev. Chester Buzzard officiating.

Mrs. Scobold was born in Shawnee, a daughter of the late William and Carolyn Snyder.

Survivors include two brothers, James Snyder, Stroudsburg, and Forrest Snyder, East Stroudsburg.

Party today

STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Mountain Art Group will hold a Christmas party today at Stroudsburg High School art room at 7 p.m.

Harrisburg meeting Jan. 8

County to push enlarged Rt. 209

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Commissioners Monday announced that a meeting will be held in Harrisburg on Jan. 8 at which time the Tocks Island Regional Advisory resolution concerning Rt. 209 will be presented to the Highway Department.

Commissioner Elwood Hintze said that along with the TIRAC resolution, the planning commission resolution would also be presented.

The Pennsylvania Dept. of Highways has stated that it would be impossible to construct a four-lane highway where Rt. 209 is presently located.

Their reason was lack of funds. The department gave the cost of a two-lane highway located on a four-lane right-of-way at $35,840,000. Spokesmen have set the price at constructing an additional two lanes at $30,000,000 more.

Mrs. Wendy Mazur and Mr. John Dougherty, representatives of the Head Start program, appeared before the commissioners to ask that the commissioners sponsor part of the program in 1969.

Commissioner Hintze asked that a summarized report of the program's activities containing facts and figures be submitted to the commissioners.

He quickly added that in no way was he turning down their request, but that he thought the report should be made part of the official records.

In other business, Mrs. Beatrice Howitt was appointed by the commissioners to the post of Surplus Food Administrator to replace William Reaser, who is resigning effective Dec. 31.

A request from Company "C", National Guard, asking the commissioners to consider raising their allocation from $1,200 to $1,500 for 1969 was tabled.

The commissioners approved the purchase of four hospital-type beds for use at Pleasant Valley Manor for the sum of $964 less two per cent, from Mathews Bros., Scranton. (Bud) Martin was unable to attend Monday's meeting.

Eighth grader wins spelling crown

PCC tops county contest

EAST STROUDSBURG — Eileen M. Shannon, of Mt. Pocono, bested on the word "revenue" but she spelled it slowly and correctly.

Karen Verwey of Tannersville went down on "oppressive" but then before being declared winner of the first annual Monroe County Spelling Bee, Eileen had to spell "insurrection" correctly.

"Insurrection," Eileen said as the 200-member audience held its breath. I-n-s-u-r-e-c-t-i-o-n-insurrection."

Pocono Central Catholic High School, Cresco, enjoyed a clean sweep of winner and runner-up in the spelling bee sponsored by the Optimist Club of the Stroudsburgs Monday night at the East Stroudsburg junior-senior high school auditorium.

Eileen, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shannon of 208 Winona Road, Mt. Pocono, and an eighth grade student at Pocono Central Catholic was cool, calm and collected as she bested the two other finalists, Karen, a Pocono Central Catholic ninth grader, and Amy Jankowski, a seventh grader from Pleasant Valley High School.

After the contest Amy said she missed the same word last year in a school spelling contest. The word was "Occurrence."

A group of sisters from Pocono Central Catholic congratulated Eileen who won a gold trophy and a $100 savings bond as county champion and a $25 bond for eighth grade champion.

"You were so calm," one of the sisters said. And to runner-up Karen Verwey she said, "And then the two of you against each other!"

Karen won a $50 savings bond as runner-up and a $25 bond as ninth grade champion.

Some of the other words missed by the semifinalists were indicative, sediment, tortoise, melancholy, chassis, conscience, cavalcade, secession, silhouette, provocation and reversible.

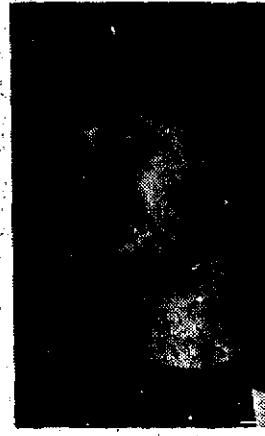

The word "tranquility" was missed by two ninth graders, Susan Buskirk of Pleasant Valley High and Karen Verwey of Pocono Central Catholic.

The next word for Susan was "moral" which she spelled incorrectly as "moral." Karen was declared ninth grade

Bangor proposes several tax hikes

BANGOR — The Bangor Borough Council is proposing a substantial increase in all taxes to balance its 1969 budget which shows an increase of more than $8,000 from this year.

During a meeting Monday night, council also discussed the possibility of levying a $10 occupational privilege tax.

The new tax revenue is needed to balance a proposed budget of $299,995.

While no official action was taken, council expressed its intention of raising real estate taxes from seven to nine mills; boosting the per capita tax from five dollars to $7.50, and raising the occupational taxes from 20 to 30 mills.

These taxes are on top of the one-half of one per cent earned income tax which council reenacted during the meeting.

The occupational privilege tax is assessed on all persons who work in Bangor. A Bangor resident who works out of town would not have to pay the levy.

The so-called right to work tax is different from the occupational assessment tax which is levied on all borough residents and based on a job classification assessment.

The new budget carries no.

Meeting cancelled

STROUDSBURG — The regular meeting of the Stroudsburg Municipal Authority originally scheduled for Monday night was cancelled. The Authority will next meet on Jan. 13.

New citizens greeted by judge, Santa

In departure from the usual procedure of asking the people questions about the government before giving them the oath, Judge Williams introduced the new citizens to certain county governmental officials who were asked to be present in the courtroom.

Judge Williams made the departure from the routine saying that in part it was because of the spirit of Christmas and in part because he was sure the people knew the answers to the questions anyway.

After giving the oath of citizenship, Judge Williams again departed from the usual routine. He made a brief, but impassioned speech about the new citizens' duties and responsibilities of citizenship in the United States.

Following his speech, Judge Williams came down off the bench to personally welcome each new citizen and congratulate them.

Mrs. Claude W. Lester, representing the League of Women Voters and the Daughters of the American Revolution, presented each of the new citizens with small desk-sized replicas of the United States flag.

She also informed them that both organizations were going to hold a reception in their honor at Wyckoff's Tea Room immediately after the courtroom ceremony.

At Wyckoff's the honored guests had a chance to visit with Santa Claus as they knew him in the countries in which they were born.

Frank Casares said that in Spain, the old gentleman was called St. Nick. Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Luehrs, and Gunther Roy all said that is what he is also called in Germany.

To Helen Varkony of Hungary, he had been known as "Miklas." And to Norie Suzuki Keiper, he had been called "Ogsan."

ESSC five drops third to Trenton

TRENTON, N.J. — The East Stroudsburg State College basketball team faded in the second half for the second straight game Monday night as it dropped a 79-66 decision to Trenton State.

Now winless in its first three outings the Warriors trailed by only 48-44 with 15:40 left in the second half.

But then Trenton (1-1) reeled off seven straight points and the visitors were done. ESSC was never able to get closer than seven points as Trenton kept the spread at 9 to 11 points.

The Warriors got into foul trouble (29) were called against ESSC as compared to 18 for Trenton) in the second half but forward Jim Grier fouled out with nine minutes to play and center Steve Guter picked up his fourth foul with 17 minutes left in the game. Guter was benched for about nine minutes and it was during this time that Trenton put the game out of reach.

The first half was nip and tuck as the game was tied five different times. It was also a half that saw the Warriors never lead by more than two points and that was in the first five minutes of the game.

ESSC continued to have its troubles from the floor as it hit on only 24 of 63 shots for a 38 per cent. Trenton hit on 24 of 62 for 44 per cent.

Trenton State also outrebounded the Warriors, 46-40 although the outstanding rebounder was ESSC's Ben 'Horse' Kizer, who pulled down 15.

The winners had a trio of players in twin figures with 6-6 Ralph Brateras, who also held Guter in check, netting 16, Jack Bell, (6-1), 18, and Dan Fowler (6-2) 19.

The top scorer for coach Ken Sisson was sophomore guard Fred Richter with 17, 11 of them in the first half. Rod Chando, the other half of the ESSC backcourt combination had 12 and Guter, who had 30 in his last outing, was held to 11.

The ESSC fresh broke into the win column for the first time with a 58-53 decision in the preliminary game. Jim Smith, former Salisbury standout, had 13 for the winners.

Most coaches said the increase in prices for student tickets from $1.50 to $2.50 at the new Garden was given as a major reason for the poor attendance.

It was also noted that the $3 seats in the old Garden for adults provided a much better view of the action than the $5 seats in the new Garden.

Bruce Webster, the coach at Bridgeport College, said, "don't try to scout a game at the new Garden. I tried it last week and I was so high up that my contacts fogged up."

He added, "After the game I tried to get to the locker room to talk to one of the coaches. I followed the ushers' instructions on how to get there—and all of a sudden I was in the street. I tried to get back in and they pulled a gun on me—and locked me out."

It was also mentioned that the new Garden is a "cold place" with no lobby for friends to meet.

One thing is obvious though.

The days when Madison Square Garden was the showplace of college basketball are over.

Army's Cahill to speak at ninth NFF banquet

NORTHAMPTON — The Lehigh Valley Chapter, National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame today announced Tom Cahill, head coach at West Point, will be the principal speaker at its ninth annual scholar athlete dinner program. The affair will be held Monday night, Jan. 27, in the Memorial Community Center in Northampton.

Thirty scholastic and six collegiate scholar athletes will be honored. Each school will nominate its representative. The chapter will select the top scholastic honoree. His identity will be disclosed as the final aspect of the program.

Cahill, a graduate of Army, just completed his third season as Army's mentor with a 7-3 record. In his first two seasons at the Point, Cahill had identical 8-2 marks.

He became Army's 26th coach in the spring of 1966. Only seven other Army coaches have won more games than Cahill, and all of them held the job three years or longer.

In his first year Cahill won Coach-of-the-Year honors. To cap off the season he coached the East to victory in the Coaches All-America game in Atlanta. In his second year he was on the East staff for the

Ralph Houk second

Mayo Smith AL Manager-of-the-Year

NEW YORK (UPI)—Genial Mayo Smith, who played it conservatively while directing the Detroit Tigers to their first pennant since 1945 but then came up with a daring and successful gamble in the World Series, Monday was named American League Manager-of-the-Year by United Press International.

In his third shot at managing a big league team, Smith brought the Tigers their first world championship in 23 years in his second season at the helm and received 11 of the 20 votes in a UPI poll of sportswriters around the nation.

Ralph Houk, who led the New York Yankees to their first finish in the first division since 1964 even though they had the worst batting attack in the league, was second with six votes. Bob Kennedy, fired by Charley Finley even though he piloted Oakland to sixth place, received three votes. Al Dark of Cleveland received two and Earl Weaver, who took over at Baltimore at the All-Star break, got one vote.

Smith was named the Tiger manager at the start of the 1967 season after General Manager James Campbell offered the job to several other candidates including Al Lopez and Ralph Houk—only to have them turn it down.

In 1967 the Tigers went down to the last day of the season before losing the pennant by one game to the Boston Red Sox—but they jumped out in front at the start of the 1968 season and held the lead all the way.

Smith, who managed 3½ years at Philadelphia from 1955 to July, 1958, before he was fired and also managed Cincinnati in 1959 before being let go, generally is considered a "book" manager who plays everything by the percentages.

"I guess you'd call me a land guy," Smith likes to say. He was a superscout for the Yankees before the Tigers

Mrs. Phillips advances in '840' action

STROUDSBURG — Betty Phillips of Stroudsburg won a close match in Sunday's '840' Classic' fourth preliminary.

During the third and final game the lead shifted several times but Mrs. Phillips held the match lead by nine pins, with a 548 total on games of 196-170 and 182. Helen Dunn of Stroudsburg came in second with 539. Doris Pellecier of Stroudsburg scored 503 and Mano Miller of East Stroudsburg, 439.

This job brought him in direct contact with West Point when several of his players went on to play for Army. The most famous was end Bill Carpenter, known as the Lonesome End and the Academy's all-American player in 1959.

Cahill then moved to New Jersey's Riverdale Regional High School where in two seasons his teams had a record of nine wins and one tie in 16 games.

He and Mrs. Cahill have four children—Thomas, 19; Caren, 11; Betsy, 10, and Doug, 9.

Wings recall Rene LeClerc

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Red Wings, in their weekly player shuffle with their Fort Worth farm club, Monday called up center Rene LeClerc and reassigned Wings Ed Hatoum and Hank Monteith to the Central Hockey League team.

Hatoum, 21, had a goal and one assist in four games with the Red Wings while Monteith, 23, appeared in three games with the National Hockey League club with one assist.

LeClerc, 21, has three goals and five assists in his first full professional season of hockey. He has played 22 games with Fort Worth.

signed him and he is well-liked throughout the baseball circuit. But he was never considered a guy likely to make a daring move.

But after playing it conservatively through the regular season, Smith took a chance in the Series by shifting his centerfielder Mickey Stanley to shortstop so he could get Al Kaline's bat in the Series. Kaline was injured early in the season and when the club spurned with Stanley and Jim Northrup in the outfield, Smith played it safe by keeping the youngsters in the outfield and making Kaline a part-time player.

The switch of Stanley could have backfired if the slick fielding centerfielder had cost the Tigers a game with misplays. But the move worked perfectly as Stanley did a good job at short and Kaline was the Tigers' second leading fielding job at short and Kaline hit.

Stops Tormenting Rectal Itch

Exclusive Formula Promptly Stops Itching, Burning and Relieves Pain of Piles in Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): The embarrassing itch caused by hemorrhoids is most tortuous. But science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to promptly stop the burning itch, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids. And all without narcotics or stinging astringents of any kind.

The secret is Preparation H®. There is no other hemorrhoid formula like it. Preparation H also lubricates, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Drop him!

By JEAN ADAMS

JEALOUS: (Q) A boy I've been dating six weeks says he loves me. I'm very fond of him, too, but he messes it up with his jealousy.

Every date we have he accuses me of seeing other boys. This is getting old. Why would he accuse me if he loves me?

Falsely Accused In Denton, Texas (A) This may be a game he's playing, but I doubt it.

Some boys and men (and some girls and women) are unreasonably jealous and suspicious.

Some of these people can be convinced of reality. Some can't.

Tell your friend you're on the level with him and this jealous boy has got to stop and you mean it.

If he keeps it up after that, drop him. An incurably jealous boy isn't worth the trouble he can cause.

EYE NEWS: (Q) I have been wearing eye shadow, eye liner and mascara. But a good friend of mine tells me eye liner is out now and not to wear it.

I'm groping for some answer, because I wear glasses and my eye make-up needs to show through them. Can you help me?

J. J. in Medical Lake, Wash.

(A) Your friend is getting the message but her version is not exactly straight.

Eye liner is indeed becoming thinner and less obvious so as not to detract from the 1969 emphasis on eyebrows, more vivid lips, and clumpy eyelashes. But for your age group, and especially for teens who wear glasses, eye liner applied thinly is one of the subtlest ways to enhance the eyes.

Be sure, though, not to let it extend beyond the outer corner of your eye. This practice is definitely out. Liner is used to emphasize the shape of the eye—not to make it look bigger.

Ann Landers

Understanding wife

Dear Ann: I was interested in the letter from ABC, the teen-age girl whose father was cheating on her mother. You told her to keep her mouth shut and suggested the possibility that her mother probably knew what was going on and pretended not to see. You added, "When a mother is confronted with such information she may be forced to ask for a divorce which she doesn't want, as a matter of pride."

I was glad you gave that advice, Ann, because I am the wife of a cheating husband and my children are aware of their father's unfaithfulness. Several weeks ago I overheard my 15-year-old daughter tell her 17-year-old brother she saw Daddy's car again — parked on a side street by Mrs. J's house. But they've never said anything to me.

I appreciate my children's silence more than they'll ever know. It shows strong character and genuine consideration. I am aware, too, that just because a man is unfaithful does not mean he is rotten to the core and deserves to be thrown out.

My husband happens to be a wonderful father and he has many fine qualities. Unfortunately, he's not quite grown up in some ways. This is not his first affair. The poor fellow has been involved with at least three other young women. Like so many other immature males, he uses extramarital sex as a prop for his sagging ego.

Living with the problem is not easy, but it's better than the alternative.

UNDERSTANDING HELPS

Dear Understanding: I admire the breadth of your understanding and the absence of hostility. Not every wife could accommodate to such a situation, but apparently you have weighed and measured and made your decision on the basis of what is best for you and your family. Congratulations.

"Seven Women:"

Great Painters

A New Book Just Released
From the Chilton Book Company

Singly or in collaboration the Neilsens have published 14 previous books. Art historians have always been fascinated with the reasons that so few women have achieved greatness in art. The Neilsens in their new book examine seven women who have joined the immortals: Angelica Kauffman, Vigee-Lebrun, Berthe Morisot, Marie Laurencin, Mary Cassatt, Cecilia Beaux and Georgia O'Keeffe.
